

Hi <<First Name>>

Welcome to the February issue of JTL Learning News.

In this issue you will find information about a new Smart Assessor app that you can choose to download to support your studies. Also, in support of LGBT+ History Month, and Safer Internet Day, which both take place this month, we have included some helpful information and guidance for you to read. Finally, for electrical learners we have included details about how you can get your hands on the new SPARKS handbook free of charge. Happy reading!

Remember, if there's anything that you need help with, please be sure to let your Training Officer (TO) know.

Smart Assessor Android App Now Available

A new Smart Assessor app is available from the Google Play app store. You can use the app to log your off the job hours in the time log.

Already have the old app? You are advised to sync it when you have a reliable internet connection. You should then uninstall the old app and install this new one which will be more reliable.

Creating an inclusive built environment

February is LGBT+ History month in the UK. The month is to celebrate anyone in the LGBT+ community, and at JTL, we support anybody who is LGBTQIA+. The month of February aims to highlight the achievements and contributions that LGBT+ people have made in different areas of work and sectors, whether this be past or present.

There have been (and still are) many LGBT+ people who have made contributions to the sector and are advocating for better awareness and acceptance.

Safer Internet Day

Safer Internet Day took place recently on 6th February. The internet shapes our everyday lives, it is a tool we rarely go a day without using. Whether it's used for socialising with friends through social media or gaming platforms, or for the use of learning and finding new information.

In support of Safer Internet Day JTL wants to remind you about how to stay safe online.

This year's theme is all about change online. Technology is changing at a rapid rate, in the last 10 years we have seen new developments such as Artificial Intelligence (AI), Face ID, Smart phones and watches, and much more.
